Day of decision

Tomorrow the County Board of Supervisors, sitting as the County Water Agency, will be called upon to make a most critical decision regarding the Lompoc Narrows Dam Project.

An affirmative vote by the five-member agency will be tantamount to a vote of confidence on behalf of the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation and its firm recommendation that a dam and reservoir be constructed on the lower Santa Ynez River just east of Lompoc.

A negative vote, or a refusal to act on the part of the Agency, may forever consign to the bureaucratic pigeon hole the results of five years of work and more than $400,000 in federal and county funds. Such a course of events could hardly be in the best interests of the people of the valley, the county and the state. Indeed, it may imperil the future of the very people whom the elected representatives have sworn to uphold and protect.

In the simplest of terms, the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation states emphatically in its voluminous and costly report that:

—There is an urgent need to develop a supplemental water supply as soon as possible for this area.

—The Lompoc dam and reservoir will provide flood control below the dam area offering protection to farmers and ranchers, Vandenberg Air Force Base, the Federal Correctional Institution and the city of Lompoc.

—There is an ever-increasing need to develop recreation facilities in this area, the county and the state and that if constructed the project ultimately would be capable of accommodating nearly 2½ million visitors annually and of accommodating upwards of 420,000 angling days.

—The cost of the project is feasible in the terms of benefits outweighing costs on a 1.3 to 1 ratio.

At stake in the Agency's awesome responsibility is a decision far more important than the potential for a good or poor financial risk. Dollars are important, to be sure, but they are important only when considered within the context of the problem at hand.

Today the world and the nation are facing a population explosion of great magnitude. California is especially vulnerable to the problem because of its attractiveness. The entire state faces monumental problems across the board and water shortages loom the greatest. The present population of Lompoc Valley is approximately 48,000. Experts predict that 50 years hence, there will be approximately 196,000 people living within the same area. There is no stemming the tide of urbanization and there is no way to abort the problem. The only sensible solution is to prepare today for tomorrow.

Never before in history has a community demonstrated such collective support for a project. Strong endorsements of support have come from the Lompoc City Council, the Chamber of Commerce, Vandenberg Air Force Base, Lompoc Record, Santa Barbara News Press, Santa Ynez Valley News, Radio Stations KLOM, KNEZ, KKOK, numerous civic clubs and organizations. In addition, more than 7,000 persons in the Lompoc area and other areas of the County have signed petitions in favor of the Project. This figure compares significantly to the 7,880 persons who turned out to vote in the Fourth District during the 1968 supervisorial election. While there is no intent to infer that all petition signers voted last year, it does carry the obvious conclusion that an overwhelming majority of the voters are in favor of the project.

It is to be hoped that tomorrow will find the Agency meeting room in the County Administration Building in Santa Barbara filled with hundreds of citizens who are sufficiently concerned to take their personal time to make their presence felt on those who must make the decision.

Tomorrow's decision may well be among the most critical ever faced by the five members of the County Water Agency. It is to be hoped again that their decision will be responsive to the will of the majority of people who have spoken loud and clear.

Henrik Ibsen once said: "I hold that man is in the right who is most closely in league with the future."

A "yes" vote on the Lompoc project is a right vote for the people of today and for the generations of tomorrow. The project is an obligation which cannot be shunned — a responsibility we must assume.

News moves made for Red threat

SAIGON (UPI)—Following a weekend of fighting that killed more than 600 guerrillas, the U.S. military command today announced a new 3,300-man counteroffensive to break up a Communist threat on the northern coast. The heavy weekend fighting and the new offensive, called Operation Lamar Plain, came amid outcry from Democratic leaders in Congress that United States was increasing combat in Vietnam while talking peace in Paris. At the same time, informed U.S. military sources in Saigon said the Viet Cong had infiltrated 100 to 300 terrorists into the capital with the U.S. embassy and the Presidential Palace their targets. The sources said a large-scale attack on the city was not in sight. The Viet Cong's Liberation Radio announced meantime that the Communists would observe a 48-hour truce from 7 a.m. Thursday to 7 a.m. Saturday for Buddha's birthday. The allies called for a 24-hour truce and said it would begin at 6 a.m. Friday, the holiday.

morning a short time after fire gutted the home of Lorin Kerr at 423 S. H St.

Kerr, 40, was treated for smoke inhalation and released, according to hospital officials.

Headley's superiors reported the young patrolman arrived at the scene of the fire at 6:45 a.m., moments before the arrival of the fire trucks. Headley found the front door of the dwelling locked and flames coming from all the windows.

The entire rear portion of the house was already ablaze, according to reports. Headley battered down the front door and "in complete disregard for his own safety plunged into the house where he found Kerr, unconscious. Headley dragged the pajama clad form along the floor of the house and to safety."

Fire officials were investigating the fire today. Initial investigations showed the fire started near a hot water heater. There was no estimate of the value of the loss.

Headley joined the police department in September of 1966 after previous service on the fire department.

Ironically, Kerr had reportedly bought eight battery-operated fire alarm devices the day before the fire but had not installed them.

Action delayed on death penalty

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court decided today to put off until its next term a ruling on whether juries should have the right to impose the death penalty.

The action came in a brief order that an Arkansas capital punishment case should be reargued after the Court convenes its 1969-70 session on Oct. 13. At least two new members presumably will have taken seats on the Court by then.

Moon 'scouts' back home after fantastic journey

ABOARD USS PRINCETON (UPI) — Apollo 10's three moon pilots, successful scouts for the men who will walk on the moon this summer, streaked like a comet to a bullseye splashdown today in the South Pacific.

Clearly visible in the predawn sky, then floating down into the dark purple seas under three big parachutes, Apollo 10 brought astronauts Thomas P. Stafford, Eugene A. Cernan and John W. Young home from orbiting the arid lunar seas.

As millions watched on live color television, they landed 3.5 miles from the carrier USS Princeton at 12:52 p.m. EDT, about 400 miles east of Pago Pago in the American Samoas.

"We are in great shape," Stafford said. "You don't know how glad we are to be here."

One flight director said, "they brought back 110 per cent success" — the most successful space flight America has ever flown — and the final green light for Apollo 11 to make a landing on the moon July 20.

They flew their cone-shaped "Charlie Brown" spacecraft three quarters of a million miles through space, including 31 revolutions of the moon. Stafford and Cernan swooped to within 9.5 miles of the moon in the lunar lander "Snoopy" over the desolate spot on the moon's Sea of Tranquility where Apollo 11's lander will touchdown.

Helicopters and search planes followed them in, and the recovery "chopper" hovered over while the astronauts radioed they were in fine shape.

Two big eyes and the words, "Hello, There, Charlie Brown," were painted on the bottom of the helicopter.

"Welcome back to earth," its pilot said.

"OK, rescue, this is Apollo 10," Young said. "Take your time and take it easy. We've got a good sea state and we'd much rather be careful."

Stafford told the helicopter officer to "just relax because we're in great shape. We told you we'd be right on the spot."

The helicopter touched down on the Princeton's deck at 1:32 p.m. EDT, 40 minutes after splashdown. It was a smooth recovery.

At the Manned Spacecraft Center at Houston, the Mission Control room relaxed for the first time in eight days. Smoke from the traditional cigars filled the room.

As ground controllers watched the astronauts step off the helicopter, hoarse cheers rocked the room. Christopher C. Kraft, director of flight operations, shouted over the din into a radiophone his congratulations to the Navy for the recovery.

Cernan hopped out on a red carpet on the flight deck first, then Young, then commander Stafford. All three were clean shaven — with a safety razor they carried on the flight — grinning and looking exceptionally fit.

"It's really great to be back from the moon," Stafford said after being greeted by Capt. Carl M. Cruse, skipper of the Princeton.

Tax hike seen as new budget presented

The possibility of an 18 cent increase in the County tax rate was visualized unofficially today as the Board of Supervisors received the proposed $46.9 million 1969-70 budget from Administrative Officer Raymond D. Johnson.

Meanwhile the County Taxpayers' Association in a statement to the board this morning asked supervisors to maintain the present $2.32 rate.

Johnson, in a budget message, did not estimate the increase the proposed budget would entail. However, he pointed out the proposed budget shows a general fund increase of about $7.1 million over last year with estimated revenues increasing by little more than $6 million. A net increase of about $1 million could mean approximately $.18 to the current tax rate.

The major increases recommended in the new proposed budget have to deal with law enforcement, welfare, health and general fund contingencies. The latter would total about $1.3 million in additional salaries.

Johnson pointed out in his message that economy slashes could take place in a number of directions. For this reason, he said, no specific recommendations were made for library services, agricultural extension service, parks and recreation areas, advertising of county resources, historical monuments and fiestas, fairs and exhibits.

The park is now officially open but will undergo a five-year development plan.

PRETTY BETH DAWSON is advertising the fact that there is an important meeting in Santa Barbara tomorrow. Beth and many other people from the Lompoc area plan to be at the County's Water Agency meeting on the Lompoc Dam project scheduled for 2 p.m. tomorrow in the new County Administration Building in Santa Barbara and Anapamu Streets. Individuals needing transportation should contact the Chamber of Commerce office 6-3811.

Water Agency nears project decision

The County Water Agency will meet tomorrow afternoon in Santa Barbara to weigh the findings and recommendations of a study calling for construction of a dam and reservoir on the Santa Ynez River three miles east of Lompoc.

The five-member agency will be acting on a $400,000 report which took upwards of five years to prepare. The report was authored by the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation with the Corps of Engineers, U.S. Health Service and other pertinent government agencies assisting.

DIRECTIONS

Those visiting the County Board of Supervisors' hearing room for the first time should encounter little difficulty in getting there. Take the Carrillo Street turnoff from Highway 101. Turn left onto Santa Barbara Street and proceed to the county parking lot. The hearing room is on the fourth floor of the new County Administration Building (Santa Barbara Street and Anapamu) directly across the street from the old court house. Individuals are requested to arrive a little early. The meeting will begin promptly at 2 p.m.

The study concludes that the plain which supplies water to the Lompoc area is in an overall state of overdraft; that construction of an all-purpose dam and reservoir is the best solution to the problem; and that construction of the project is feasible economically and financially.

If the Agency approves the study and it ultimately receives federal blessings and funding, it will mean that a $70 million construction project will be undertaken to build a dam and lake to supply water, recreation, flood control and fishery enhancement. The lake, when filled would be 2½ times larger than Lake Cachuma.

Just how the agency views the Bureau's recommendations on the project is uncertain at this time. Proponents of the project are hopeful that the study will go forward on a 5-0 vote and that the Agency will agree to serve as contracting agent between the U.S. Government and the county.

Clint Sherrod, coordinator for a petition drive sponsored by the FACT Committee, said this morning that more than 8,000 signatures had been collected in support of the project and that these would be presented to the Agency tomorrow as an indication of how strongly the local people feel about the project.

The members of the local FACT Committee have been energetically promoting a large citizen turnout and expectations are that many people will be present at the 2 p.m. meeting to be held in the new Administration Building in Santa Barbara.

The local Chamber of Commerce also is active in promoting the project and is coordinating an effort to insure that all people desirous of attending the meeting have transportation. Ralph Patey, executive manager of the chamber, requested that all persons who are driving to the meeting and who have room for passengers to drive by the Chamber Office at Cypress and H Street between the hours of noon and 12:30 tomorrow. All those in need of transportation are requested to be at the chamber office between noon and 12:30 to avail themselves of the transportation.

The Santa Ynez River Water Conservation District's board of directors recently voted 4-1 in a move to delay the dam project. The board's resolution stated that it could not at this time support the project and requested the County Water Agency to take no action which would commit the county to the Lompoc Dam project until reports of the Feather River project are completed.

Just how much weight the district board's resolution will carry is not known at this time. However, the county's own consulting engineer Robert Edmonston will give his views on the findings of the Bureau. His advice to the Agency is expected to weigh heavy on the various board members.

Chairman of the FACT Committee, Robert C. Lilley, this morning urged all citizens interested in promoting the project to attend tomorrow's meeting to make their feelings known to the members of the Agency. He said that such a showing would help to impress the Agency with the fact that the desires of a small but vocal minority should not be allowed to let override the needs and desires of the overwhelming majority of people who live in the area affected by the project.

Elastic in budget to be told

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Gov. Ronald Reagan's administration issued its final figures today on just how much "elastic" there is in his $6.3 billion budget now under consideration by the Legislature.

Finance Director Caspar W. Weinberger called a news conference to disclose the Administration's revised estimates of how much revenue the state expects in the next fiscal year.

The amount of change—either up or down—from the estimates made in February when Reagan presented his spending plan will determine how much working room the Legislature has to revise the administration budget.

Senators and Assemblymen returned to their desks for morning sessions with the budget the major item facing the lower house this week.

The Assembly Ways and Means Committee earlier approved a budget hiking Reagan's spending a slight $3 million from $6,225 billion to $6,228 billion.

But Democratic leaders, demanding an $86 million cut, promised a floor fight when the budget is debated Tuesday by the Assembly.

The revenue estimates will give the final working figures on how much could be cut from, or added to, the budget.

They also will affect some $1 billion in tax reform measures also before the Legislature.

Assemblyman George Zeno, Fresno, Democratic Caucus Chairman, and Robert W. Crown, D-Alameda, vice chairman of the Revenue and Taxation Committee, last week indicated the tax reform package may be used as a lever to force cuts in Reagan's budget from the Republicans.

Mild, warm weather over most of nation

By United Press International

Mild to warm weather was the rule in much of the nation today, although unseasonably chilly conditions prevailed from parts of the upper Midwest to northern New England.

Some widely scattered precipitation marred an otherwise clear weather pattern across the country.

Showers occurred along the north Pacific Coast and in the Northeast in association with cold fronts, while showers and locally heavy thundershowers fell in the northern Great Plains area, the lower Mississippi Valley, the Texas Panhandle and the Carolinas.

In southeastern South Dakota Sunday night large hail pelted some areas, while smaller hail fell near Monroe, in north central Louisiana, and in the Texas Panhandle north of Midland.

In a six-hour period more than two inches of rain soaked Monroe.

Locally severe and heavy thunderstorm activity developed Sunday across the south Atlantic and central Gulf states.

Huge turnout of voters seen for mayor's race

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A bruising fight for the mayor's office between a maverick Democrat and a Negro expoliceman Tuesday was expected to bring the greatest voter turnout in the history of America's third largest city.

Seeking a third term is Mayor Sam Yorty, 59, who hasn't let his status as a registered Democrat stop him from bucking the party's organization and endorsing Richard Nixon.

His challenger is City Councilman Thomas Bradley, 51, who launched a political career after 21 years in the Los Angeles Police Department. Bradley wants to cap it by becoming the city's first black mayor.

Various polls have shown Bradley ahead by margins ranging from 5 to 15 per cent, but with Yorty picking up support in the closing days of the campaign.

The City Clerk's office predicts up to 75 per cent of the 1,127,224 eligible voters will cast ballots.

Parts of varied menu returned by astronauts

By KENNETH F. ENGLADE

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—The Apollo 10 astronauts, who carried the most varied menu of any American spacecrew on their eight-day voyage to the moon, today brought some of it back untouched.

Astronauts Thomas P. Stafford, John W. Young and Eugene A. Cernan escaped the still unexplained space nausea which struck the Apollo 8 and Apollo 9 crews, but they said their appetites were dulled by the hydrogen gas in their drinking water.

However, their mild stomach discomfort was not expected to keep the astronauts from celebrating their return with a sausage and eggs "breakfast" aboard the USS Princeton, the prime recovery ship.

They also planned to cap off the return celebration later with a slice of the huge cake created by the Princeton's bakers for the occasion.

Dr. Charles E. Berry, the astronauts' chief physician, said earlier Stafford, Young and Cernan reported taking medication (Lomatil) to help relieve the mild discomfort caused by the gas. Other spacemen also reported similar problems.

Space agency officials said the astronauts' drinking water, which is drawn from a fuel cell, is saturated with hydrogen gas.

A method designed to separate the gas from the water by spinning a bag of water did not work in space and scientists were unable to devise an alternative procedure before the flight ended.

The Apollo 10 larder, probably the most appetizing carried by an American space crew, included 60 freeze-dried rehydratable food items plus one

"wet-pack" meal for each crewmember each day.

The "wet-pack" meals consisted of foil wrapped packages of beef and potatoes, ham and potatoes and turkey chunks with gravy.

The freeze-dried items stored in special bags, were reconstituted by adding water and kneading. To eat, the astronauts cut the top of the bag and squeezed out the food.

Heyerdahl voyage starts bad

SAFI, Morocco (UPI)—Thor Heyerdahl's reed boat suffered a broken rudder and the crew was upset and seasick the first day out on their transatlantic voyage, a visitor to the vessel reported today.

Despite perfect sailing weather and calm waters, both long oars used to steer the soggy boat snapped on the start of its 4,000-mile trip to the Americas, Jacques Artaug, a French publisher, said. He accompanied the boat as it left North Africa Sunday.

"Only one crew member seemed to be really happy," Artaug said. "That was Safi, the little monkey, who was running around the roof of the boat." The animal is the crew's mascot.

Artaug said one sailor was seasick and the others were discouraged by the steering trouble.

Heyerdahl, leader of the oceanic expedition replaced the oars with a makeshift rudder and raised a stabilizing sail that succeeded in moving the boat well.

An inauspicious launch and forecasts of hurricanes at journey's end marked the start of the expedition, in which modern man will try to conquer the Atlantic as his ancestors might have.

First civil rights test expected

By GENE BERNHARDT
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congress may face its first civil rights fight of 1969 this week when northern Democrats push for a provision to cut off federal farm funds to areas where racial discrimination is practiced.

At issue is a $6.6 billion appropriation bill covering what the Agriculture Department will spend for the year beginning July 1. It includes subsidies for farmers who hold land out of production as well as other department programs.

In the House, where the measure came up today, northern Democrats said they would seek an amendment to cut off farm funds to any program in violation of the antidiscrimination requirements of the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

The principle behind the proposal is the same as the government's actions in holding up federal aid to education for local school districts not in compliance with guidelines based on the same law.

The House Appropriations Committee tried to blunt the northern Democrats' move by including in the bill $250,000 for the department's civil rights program; but liberals said a funds cutoff provision was needed to overcome alleged discrimination in some southern farm programs.

Panthers deny Cleaver hiding out in Havana

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)—A spokesman for the Black Panther Party has denied reports from Havana that Eldridge Cleaver, a fugitive wanted by the FBI, is hiding out in the Cuban capital.

"That's bull," the spokesman said. "Eldridge said before he left he would be in the black community surrounded by guns. He said he was never going back to prison."

Cleaver, 33, "Minister of Information" for the Black Panthers, went underground last Nov. 27, the day he was due to surrender in San Francisco for return to San Quentin prison for parole violation. The FBI listed him as an "armed and extremely dangerous" fugitive.

The self-styled author-revolutionary was reported to have been seen in a number of cities, including New York. Dispatches from Havana Saturday said Cleaver was hiding out there, avoiding publicity and refusing to make any statements to newsmen.

Southerners see the 'true Nixon'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon's conservative southern supporters contend he finally expressed his true political philosophy in nominating Warren E. Burger, a "law and order" judge, as chief justice of the United States.

This behind-scenes speculation came in stronger terms than the public statements of approval southern congressional leaders made after the President announced his choice last week.

Throughout the Republican administration's first four months in office conservative Nixon supporters became Nixon apologists and, finally, Nixon critics because of a procession of appointments and decisions they did not like.

In a crucial contest for "Wallace votes" in his campaign to win southern border states, Nixon had made an array of conservative-appearing pledges that appealed to a bipartisan segment of the entire South.

Nixon had sprinkled his "law and order" vote-getting trail with specific bids for the South's favor, such as his public disapproval of the idea of busing children to achieve racial balance.

There was widespread consternation, therefore, when Dr. James E. Allen Jr., former New York State school superintendent known as the nation's leading "busing" advocate, was named commissioner of education.

This appeared to be a 180-degree turn for a man the South's conservative majorities had looked to save their concept of the neighborhood school.

Brandishing the Burger nomination as vindication of their support of Nixon, his campaigners now attempt to reconcile the Allen appointment with Nixon's views.

Their answer: The appointment was simply a mistake that occurred during the organization of the new administration while the President's attention was diverted.

More specifically, they said the President picked the most trustworthy men he could find for cabinet posts and then "commissioned" them to be their "own men" and make their own decisions.

Nixon's thumb sore following bowling

That was described as the situation in which Robert H. Finch, Secretary of the department of Health, Education and Welfare, chose Allen without first checking political considerations.

This occurred while the President's attention was drawn to the conduct of the Vietnam War, the Paris talks, fiscal crises and other things, Nixon's southern supporters contend.

Those who previously felt the President was neglecting his true "mandate" can look toward more consistency in the future, say the Nixon boosters.

In addition to the Burger appointment they cite White House moves toward closer political liaisons since Rep. Rogers C. B. Morton, R-Md., was installed as new national party chairman.

The President has assigned a bigger political role to Harry Dent, a former aide of Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C. Thurmond is widely credited with having a crucial role in Nixon's nomination and election.

Dent, 39, former South Carolina Republican chairman, was first designated deputy counsel to the President but has since been described as the President's political liaison man.

On balance, the Nixon record is now pictured by conservatives as matching accurately his campaign commitments without any inconsistencies that the President had a personal hand in making.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas has said privately that an Internal Revenue Service investigation of the Albert Parvin Foundation was a "manufactured case" intended to force him from the bench, the New York Times reported today.

The Times said the charge was contained in a letter dated May 12 that Douglas sent Albert Parvin, multimillionaire Los Angeles businessman.

Parvin heads the foundation of which Douglas was president and a director until the Supreme Court justice resigned the positions, which paid an annual salary of $12,000, last week.

The Times, in a Los Angeles dispatch, said Douglas, reached in Washington, had declined to comment on the contents of the letter in question.

The report said Parvin had made some of the foundation's records available to the newspaper "to show that nothing the foundation has done is in any way wrong."

IRS agents have been conducting their investigation for three years. Agents have also reportedly examined some of Douglas' own files in Washington in connection with the probe.

Students to seek issue answers in march today

By CARL INGRAM
DAVIS, Calif. (UPI)—Student leaders of a march on the Capitol to demand withdrawal of National Guard troops from Berkeley today dropped "demands" in favor of "raising certain issues."

The march on the Sacramento statehouse originally had been planned to demand Gov. Ronald Reagan lift the state of emergency in the university city and withdraw troops and police forces.

The governor lifted restrictions on parades and assemblies and the curfew in Berkeley early Sunday and withdrew many of the troops. But he refused to end the state of emergency and left 200 National Guardsmen to seal off "People's Park."

Bruce Riordan, spokesman for the Inner Campus March Committee, said the change in strategy was not in reply to Reagan's action but "just a tactic."

"We're not asking for a confrontation," he said. But Riordan said the first issue the students will raise is "the removal of troops and the lifting of the emergency."

Upwards of a thousand students—the march committee hoped for 10,000—gathered for a six-block march in Sacramento ending with a rally at the Capitol to hear 11 speakers including Dr. Linus Pauling, twice winner of the Nobel Prize in chemistry and now on the faculty of the University of California at San Diego.

Riordan said "at least a small delegation" of students is expected from all nine campuses of UC, all 18 state colleges and a number of private schools and junior colleges. Among the early arrivals at Davis Sunday was a contingent of 250 students from UC Santa Barbara.

While student leaders worked into the early morning hours planning the march, students from other campuses doubled up in dormitories, lounges and off-campus student apartments at the UC Davis staging area. The private firm supplying food service at Davis helped feed the outsiders.

"We want to emphasize this is a legal, non-violent, peaceful march," Riordan said. "It is legal in that we have a permit to march, a permit to rally and a permit to use loud speaking equipment."

Upwards of 300 parade monitors were in training on the Davis campus Sunday night. Most were from the Sacramento-Davis area.

"We will be policing our own march and we will be cooperating with the city police of Sacramento," Riordan said.

He said other issues to be raised over the violent confrontation resulting from the Berkeley street colony's transformation of a UC-owned vacant lot into a park are: "Negotiation of return of 'People's Park' to the people of Berkeley."

—Amnesty for all those arrested.
—Political responsibility for the occupation of Berkeley."

La Purisima, Santa Maria parlors host the visit of Native Daughters president

"Our Hazel's Ranchita" was the theme chosen by La Purisima and Santa Maria parlors of the Native Daughters of the Golden West as they honored the official visit of their grand president, Mrs. Everal A. (Hazel) Mallette of Oroville. The event took place in Knights of Pythias Hall under chairmanship of Mmes. Winifred Rule and Donald Headrick, La Purisima Parlor; Mmes. Preceding the meeting was a Western barbecue for the honored guest and the 80 members assembled. Barbecue chefs were Tony Stanich, Gary Benson and Dennis Headrick.

Made from egg cartons were the table centerpieces, dogs, cats and donkey-drawn carts filled with flowers. Centering the officers table was a ranch scene of house, barn, corral of animals and a miniature orange grove. Throughout the room were arrangements of oats, rye and weeds.

Following dinner, Mrs. Alfred Rammung led the guests in singing of Western songs. Piano accompanist was Miss Eva Jacobs.

Ready to be mounted, was a saddled "tack horse" in the foyer where a wagon wheel, rocks, corn skull and greenery completed the decor of the ranch scene painted by Mrs. Rammung. Above the display was a sign "Welcome to Our Hazel's el Pequero."

Recognizing their grand president's hobby of collecting driftwood, rocks and weeds was the meeting hall decor where painted ranch scenes depicted driftwood, horses in beds of flowers,

Dear Abby 'Little' boys love to talk

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a man who tells his wife everything that happens on a trip away from home? You see, Albert travels and is away from home about two weeks out of every month.

He is always telling me about how he and some other guys get mixed up with strip-teasers and belly dancers, and they close the club and go to those girls' place and drink until morning. But Albert never does anything. It's always the other guys. He claims he gets rooked into situations like this.

I am wondering if he is telling me the whole truth. How come if my Albert is so innocent, things like this keep happening to him? But on the other hand, if he were guilty, why should he mention it?

MIXED UP: You don't say how old your Albert is, but he has a lot of growing up to do. Little boys like to talk. Your husband has a big mouth and probably an imagination which is bigger. He could also be trying to make you jealous, so you'll appreciate him more. When he starts on another one of his Arabian Nights talk, tune him out and change the subject.

DEAR ABBY: In reference to "Bewildered Grandma," who says her husband at 69 is still looking at bosomy women. I am only 17, but I know this much about men. They look at women until they die.

My father is 50 and he's still looking. My brother, who is 25, is happily married, but he is looking, too. I have a boyfriend who is nearly 20, and he also looks.

So, Grandma, don't worry. The only way you'll stop "Grandpa" from looking is to poke his eyes out.

CINDY: I wouldn't recommend it. He who isn't able to "look" resorts to Braille.

Initiated were nine members: Mmes. Virgil Phelps, James Short, Vernon Schuyler, Robert Butterfield, Eloise Livingston to La Purisima Parlor, and four to Santa Maria.

Enclosed in a crocheted "cask" suspended from the neck of a green and gold crocheted dog, was a monetary gift for the honor. Making the presentation was Mrs. Gary Benson who also made the report of La Purisima Parlor on work and projects of the year.

Stressing history and landmarks preservation and the Children's Foundation project of NDGW, the grand president reported on accomplishments of the year. She told of her trip to Promontory, Utah May 9-11 where she represented the organization at the Gold Spike ceremonies. Also announced was her trip to Washington, D.C. this week where she and the grand president of Native Sons of the Golden West will present a California Star bear flag to President Nixon. Also reported were activities to be conducted at grand parlor meeting next month in Los Banos.

DEAR ABBY: Tell that "BEWILDERED GRANDMA" whose husband likes to look at the cute, young girls that she is lucky.

My husband was also a "Grandpa" who liked to look. And I used to say, "Keep looking, my love, for when a man stops looking he's dead."

Well, he's dead now, and how I wish he were alive today and still looking. A woman should be thankful for a fun-loving husband who has a twinkle in his eye and can appreciate a good looking woman.

ANOTHER GRANDMA: Thank you for your precious, honest message. I agree. It doesn't matter where a man gets his appetite as long as he dines at home.

DEAR ABBY: You've had a running feud in your column lately about whether to bathe the baby in the sink.

Let's forget about the dishes for a moment and think about baby. And Mama. Babies grow up faster than we think. Mamas do get called away, or maybe turn their backs for a moment to turn the roast or answer the telephone. Babies have jumped out of sinks. Babies have turned on the hot water.

Sign this, "A preacher who has had to console such mothers."

DON J. KLINGENSMITH: DEAR PREACHER: I appreciated your letter. And so will many mothers to whom the above mentioned may not have occurred. (P.S. I wonder if Confucius ever said, "Baby who is bathed in sink is sunk"?)

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069 for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Kiddie Kampus, the base school for children 3½ through 5 years of age will accept registrations for the fall session during the month of May. Parents may come by Building 12406 on West Hospital Street to fill out application forms. Children may be enrolled in either the morning or afternoon session. The first is from 9 - 11:30 a.m. and the afternoon session is from 1 - 3:30 p.m. Tuition is $17.50 a month for one child, or $30.00 for two children from the same family. Kiddie Kampus observes the same holiday and vacation schedules as the public schools.

Transportation must be arranged by the parents. In the past, parents from the same neighborhood have formed car pools. This has proved to be a most satisfactory arrangement.

A summer session is being planned for the months of June and July. This will be a play time featuring arts, crafts, games and stories. The tuition will be the same. Children may enroll for either or both months.

Kiddie Kampus is staffed with competent experienced teachers who have a sincere interest in developing a valuable and worthwhile educational background for children.

Recently elected as officers of Crestview Elementary School PTA were: Major Louis A. Baker, president; Major Richard C. Reynolds, vice president; Capt. William B. Hunter, second vice president; Mrs. David R. Romeln, recording secretary; Mrs. Henry Janosky, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Edwin P. Knapp, treasurer.

Interested parents are invited to serve on committees such as carnival, membership, PTA magazine, publicity, budget and finance, Vandubush Newsletter, library and room mothers.

Youthful miss turns hobby into profits

By GAY PAULEY

UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Eve Rothstein, just turned 16, is one of the rapidly growing number of teens who sew their own wardrobes. The brunette-miniskirted miss also has gone a vast step farther in her "hobby."

Sewing now is profitable business for this New Rochelle, N.Y., daughter of photographers. She sews for others and also rents from her extensive Rothstein-made wardrobe. She also is a finalist in a national sewing contest sponsored by a fabrics firm with a trip to Scandinavia or the value in scholarship as reward for the winner. Her entry was a dress-pants-coat costume.

"I want to go to Parsons (School of Design, New York City)," said the high school sophomore. "I hope to be a dress designer with a name, like Ann Fogarty." The Fogarty label sells in stores throughout the United States.

Miss Rothstein is one of an estimated 12 million girls in the nation in the 13-19 age group who sew, an estimate from a Teenage magazine study.

Helping to boost the teen market is the fact that sewing has become a regular part of most high school curricula. One pattern company, for instance, works with 55,000 high schools.

But Eve is self-taught, although she got some tips from her mother who is a teacher in a special school and is photographer for the New Rochelle city government. Her father, Arthur is director of photography for "Look" magazine.

When she admired a wedding gown for one of those wardrobe dolls, she sat down and made it because she couldn't afford the other. Her needle, scissors and machine have been busy since.

through sixth grade wearing far-out clothes. Two of the funniest costumed students were selected from each class, and during a special assembly, these students were narrowed down by applause to three winners in the primary grades and three winners in the upper grades. A winning teacher was also selected from the primary grades and one from the upper grades. All received special ribbons. The day ended with a softball game held after school between the fifth and sixth grade boys and the faculty.

May 27 and May 28 are the days set for the Los Berros operetta put on by some of the talented upper grade students. This entertaining show will benefit "Project Amigo."

Anyone interested in renting the Community Center may call John Stone at Re 3-1549.

CHURCH ACTIVITIES

Queen of Angels School will be taking registration for the fall semester. Tuition is $10.00 per month per one child, and $14.00 per month for more than one child in a family. School includes grades one through six. For all information, call Sister Aebly at Re 3-2735.

Queen of Angels Alter Society rummage sale plans are well underway. Contributions may be taken to Mrs. George Hall's residence at 3528 Via Lato, Mrs. Ron Morris's residence at 3396 Via Barba, or left in the vestibule or school hallway. May 24 is the day for the big event.

Lockheed Wives enjoyed an interesting wig party at the home of Mrs. Edward Smith, 3434 Via Dona. Satisfying their curiosity as to how they'd look as blondes or redheads, the ladies also enjoyed refreshments brought by Mrs. Don Nisse. Mrs. R.D. Van Patten won the door prize.

Attending the fun affair were Mmes. Vincent Ledesma, Tom Curry, Gary Sanders, Al Amann, Walt Burnett, Eugene Smith, Don Nisse, Chuck Doubleday, Eloy Esparza, Jesse Wheeler, Walt Erdlin, Larry Scott Earl Anderson, R.D. Van Patten, and Miss Ann Nisse. Mrs. Flo Muspratt demonstrated the wigs.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hurdle of Via Dona recently enjoyed a big weekend with many of their relatives coming to attend the first communion of their daughter Cynthia. Present for the important event were Mrs. Theresa Albini, great grandmother; Mrs. Andres Sorgi, grandmother; Salvatore Sorgi, uncle; Miss Judy Dunn, his fiancée; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Evans, godparents, and their sons Jim and Christopher.

Use Sprayer on Car

Have you ever thought of using a hose-mounted insecticide sprayer to wash the car? Make sure all traces of chemicals are washed out, then fill the container with warm water, plus soap or detergent and spray suds over the car. This efficient "laundry" method may also be used to wash windows, patios, boats and other outdoor surfaces.

A WATER HAZARD is bad enough, but there can be added embarrassment for miniskirted golfers such as this young woman retrieving a ball from a pond in Sydney, Australia.

This girl can type 90 words a minute. And can't get a job.

She's weak in her second language. English. It's a weakness that can close a lot of doors to a lot of Mexican-Americans in Southern California.

But it's not impossible to overcome. The state's East Los Angeles Service Center is working on the problem.

They asked us to help. And we asked our employees.

So now, volunteers from the Gas Company are teaching a Service Center-sponsored course in English. Giving their time and abilities.

The program has gone beyond English classes. It now includes special tutoring for people with special problems (like the 18-year-old who never learned to read or write). And a study group to help job-hunters pass their pre-employment tests. And on-the-job secretarial training for the girls who work at the Center.

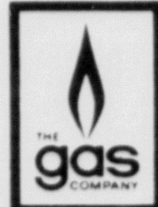

The Service Center then helps people who have completed these courses to find jobs.

It's the kind of program that helps people who are willing to work hard to help themselves. And, no mistake, it is hard work. But the Service Center students aren't complaining. They have a goal. (They want their rightful place as contributing members of our community.)

We're proud of the work Gas Company people do at the Center. And, the way we figure it, the whole community benefits.

Foyt to sit in pole slot in Indy 500

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—The speedway's qualifying records still belong to one of Andy Granatelli's retired turbocars, but Friday's 500-mile auto race will be an all-piston engine chase for a $725,000 jackpot, led by pole-sitter A. J. Foyt.

The Texas tornado from Houston nursed an ailing Ford machine around the 2½ mile oval Saturday at a speed of 170,568 miles per hour, compared to Joe Leonard's 171,559 in a turbocar last year.

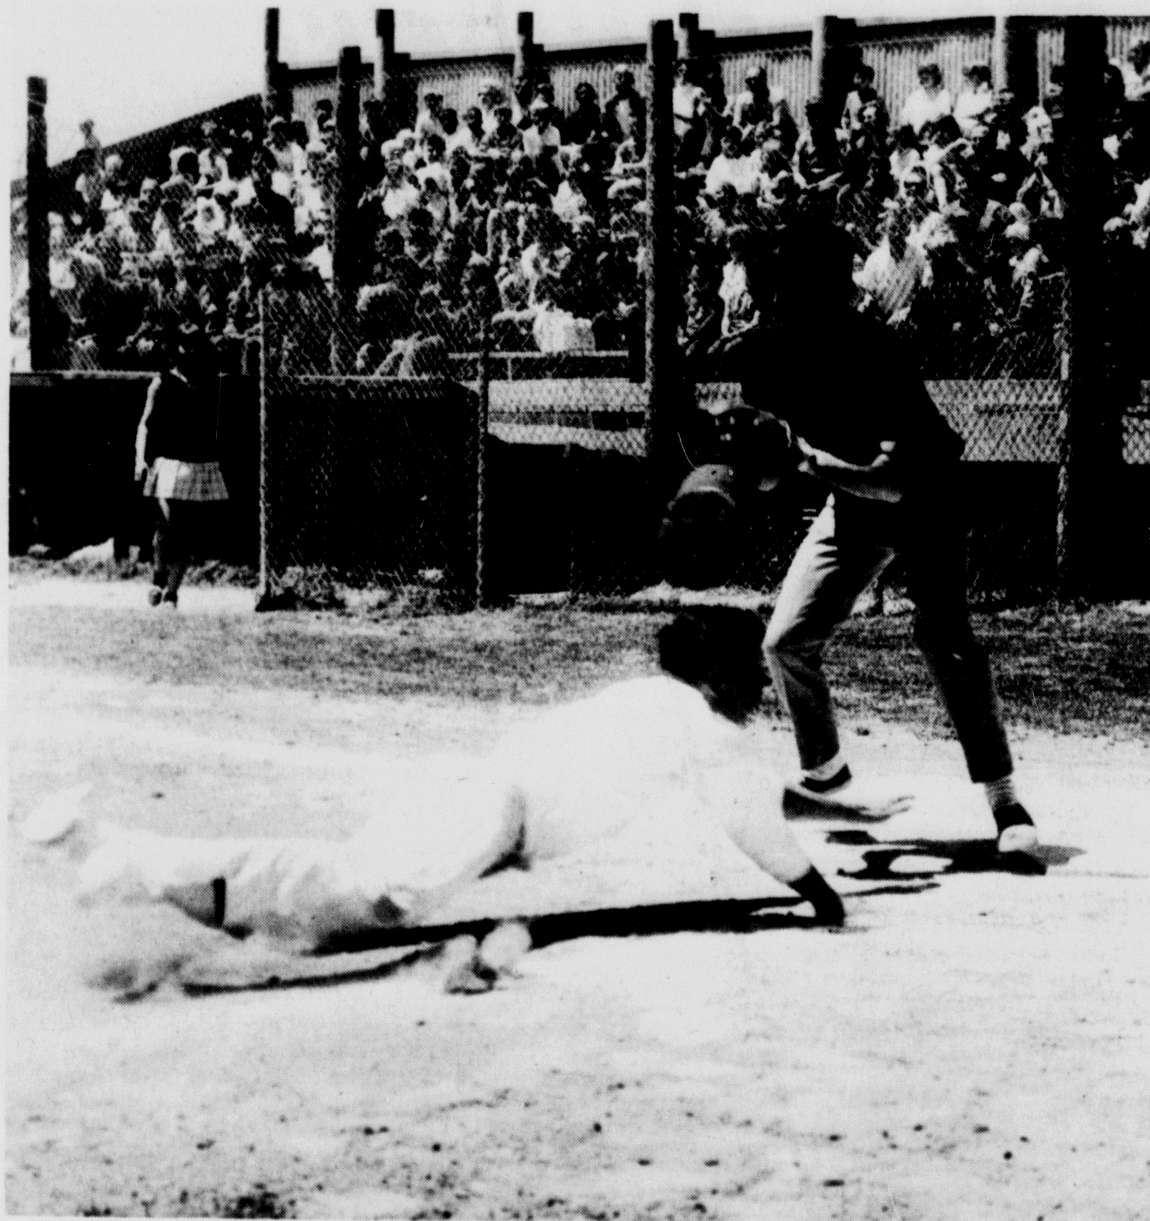

Leonard also retained the one-lap mark of 171,953, since Foyt's best lap was 171,625. But the five-time national driving champion, shooting for a record fourth "500" victory, said he was "sure" he would have wiped out Leonard's records but for an engine that went sour on the second of his four circuits around the oval.

Twenty-five cars were qualified Saturday as the trials opened a week late because of rain and 10 more Sunday. However, two of them were eliminated by faster machines to determine the 33-car lineup. The field average of 166,295 MPH was a record, compared with last year's 164,958, but the slowest qualifier, rookie Peter Revson of New York, averaged just 160,851 while Larry Dickson, Marietta, Ohio, was the slowest last year at better than 161. Four other newcomers crashed the lineup—Mark Donohue, Media, Pa.; Sonny Ates, Sellersburg, Ind.; Bruce Walkup, Downey, Calif.; and George Follmer, Arcadia, Calif.

Former World Grand Prix champions Jack Brabham of Australia and New Zealand's Denis Hulme are the only foreigners in the field. The cars of the two others, Grand Prix champ Graham Hill of England and Austria's Jochen Rindt never had a chance. Their Lotus cars were withdrawn because of possible mechanical defects.

Mario Andretti, Nazareth, Pa., the pole choice until he demolished his racer last week in a practice lap, was the second fastest qualifier at 169,851 in a backup car and defending "500" champion Bobby Unser, Albuquerque, N.M., was third at 169,683 to complete the front row lineup.

YESTERDAY'S PLAY may be today's aches for members of Lompoc and Village-Hills Little League boards of directors when coaches, managers and officers moved to the playing field for the first benefit game. Here a member of the Lompoc team safely slides into third while Village-Hills queen candidate Dawn Ebbert watches the progress of the game from her position as "bat girl" for the visiting Lompoc team. Lompoc captured the nod, taking a 9-4 triumph.

Jr. Legion nine in split with host Long Beach

After suffering a 5-2 loss Saturday, the Lompoc Junior Legion baseball team bounced back to hand the Long Beach Peterson Post Junior Legion its first pre-season loss in three years yesterday on a 5-3 note.

Both games were held in Long Beach at the Long Beach Wilson High School ball park in the first half of a scheduled home and home series between the Lompoc and Long Beach nines. The Long Beach team will come to Lompoc for a similar doubleheader later this season, according to current plans.

Sunday Roy Howell led the efforts by Lompoc as he crashed a 400 foot home run and added a triple while older brother Bobby and Monte Bolinger each collected three hits to pace the 11-hit Lompoc attack.

In Saturday's game Lompoc could only manage three hits while four pitchers gave up a total of eight hits, including a home run by Long Beach centerfielder Don Burrows. Sunday the Lompoc pitching staff settled down and only gave up four hits.

The regular Junior Legion league schedule will begin in two weeks with Lompoc hosting Santa Ynez on a Saturday and then traveling to Santa Ynez the following day for a return meeting. Other teams in the central coastal area loop include Vandenberg, Santa Maria, San Luis Obispo, Atascadero and Paso Robles.

Coach Lou Domingos reported using four pitchers, Tony Schutz, Roy Thomas, Teddy Torres and Bobby Howell, for three inning stints each during both games.

Walker in jalopy race win

Hard charging Darrell Walker of Santa Maria drove one of Del Tekaat's team cars to victory Saturday night in the jalopy main event at the Santa Maria Speedway.

Dan Simkins brought fans to their feet, making a futile attempt to pass Walker's Studebaker Lark coming out of the fourth turn after nipping at the winners heels for the final half dozen laps.

Jess Webb of Santa Maria and Tommy Atlas of Santa Barbara put on a duel for third place after jockeying back and forth for the latter part of the race. When the checkered flag fell, Atlas was in the lead by a fender length.

Don Simkins showed his versatility as a driver in both the stockers and "j-cars" by winning his fourth trophy dash in as many weeks. Finishing behind him were Bob Meneley of Santa Ynez, Walker and Dan Simkins.

In his first jalopy race, Rich Gillis of Buellton won the slow heat and then went on to win the consolation race and a spot in the main event. Atlas took honors in the second heat, with the third and fourth heat victories going to Dan Simkins.

Tuesday night begins a busy week at the Santa Maria Speedway with a hair-raising exhibition by the Kovak Dodge Thrill Show, Friday, the Lompoc Slo-Pokes will host approximately 150 motorcycle riders at the second annual Memorial Day moto-cross. Stockers return to the Speedway Saturday evening, May 31, for the running of the 100-lap Little Daytona.

Upshaw winds up with last laugh

By United Press International Cecil Upshaw of the Atlanta Braves tripped over first base running out his first major league home run Sunday but the last laugh was on the Philadelphia Phillies.

A 6-foot, 6-inch, 185-pound right-hander who has developed into the surprise relieving pitcher of the National League season, Upshaw shook off the embarrassment and went on to gun down the Phillies for his 10th save-tops in the majors.

"After all," he said with a grin after the Braves' 4-1 victory, "I really don't get that many opportunities to run around the bases. In fact, I don't get that many opportunities to bat."

Luxuriating in unaccustomed limelight, Upshaw carried on the gag.

"I always aim for a home run on my first swing," said the man who never before even made an extra base hit in the majors. "That is, if the manager doesn't flash me the out sign."

Mike Lum and Orlando Cepeda also homered for the Braves before Upshaw relieved George Stone and shut out the Phillies on three hits for the last three innings. Jerry Johnson suffered his fifth loss against two victories for the Phillies.

The victory enabled the Braves to open a 3½ game lead over the second-place Los Angeles Dodgers in the western division of the NL.

The Houston Astros ran their winning streak to eight games and their record for the month to 17-4 with a 6-3 victory over the New York Mets, the St. Louis Cardinals downed the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-0, the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the San Francisco Giants 2-1 and 6-2, the Cincinnati Reds defeated the Montreal Expos 7-2 and the Chicago Cubs scored by 1-0 after losing to the San Diego Padres 10-2 in other National League games.

Jim Wynn hit his third homer in two games and 12th of the season and Fred Gladding turned in his eighth save of the month for the Astros, who dealt Tom Seaver his third loss. Gladding hasn't allowed a run in his last 11 appearances totaling 15 innings and dating back to April 18.

Joe Torre doubled in two runs and scored a third for the Cardinals who breezed behind the six-hit pitching of Bob Gibson, Gibson struck out nine as he scored his sixth victory of the season. Curt Flood had four hits and Bob Johnson three in the Cardinals' 15-hit attack which dealt Claude Osteen his third loss.

Jim Bunning pitched a five-hitter for his fourth victory of the season and the 200th of his big league career in the Pirates' opener at San Francisco and then rookie Carl Taylor hit a two-run homer and Bill Mazeroski a solo homer in the second game.

Lee May hit two homers and drove in four runs for the second straight game as the Reds won their fifth in a row and handed the Expos their 10th straight loss. Clay Carroll blanked the Expos in the ninth inning to preserve Jim Merritt's fourth win in six decisions. Bill Stoneman was tagged for six runs in six innings and suffered his fifth defeat.

Ron Santo earned the Cubs a split in their doubleheader at San Diego when he homered for the only run of the nightcap after the Padres won the opener behind Johnny Podres' nine-hitter. Reliever Ted Abernathy, who took over for Bill Hands in the seventh, was the winner for the Cubs. Nate Colbert hit a grand slam for the Padres in the first game.

Yancey, breakdown victim, in nod over golf's 'foreigners'

ATLANTA (UPI)—Bert Yancey would never have been a pro golfer if a nervous breakdown hadn't nipped his military career in the bud but he's glad things turned out like they did.

Latest success for the 30-year-old former West Pointer came Sunday when he beat Australian Bruce Devlin on the second hole of a sudden death playoff to win the $23,000 first prize in the Atlanta Golf Classic.

Although he hadn't won a tournament since the 1967 Greater Dallas Open, that was enough to boost Yancey's earnings past the $50,000 mark for this year—close on the heels of the better than $65,000 he won in 1967 and again in 1968 and a whale of a lot more than he'd be making as an Army officer.

"After 3½ years at the point, I'd really thought I'd be a career officer," Yancey said. "But the nervous breakdown, which hospitalized me for nine months and got me a medical discharge, changed all that. It's funny sometimes how things go; it really worked out well for me."

Yancey couldn't have defended his country's honor any better if he were in uniform. In what Devlin said seemed "more like the British Open than a U.S. tournament," Yancey was the only American among the top four finishers. Foreigners took five of the top eight spots.

Yancey and Devlin, both shooting final round 69s, wound up regulation play at 11-under-par 277; South Africa's Gary Player was right on their heels with his 70-278; and Australia's Bruce Crampton was next at

Jackson captures second

Lompoc sophomore hurdler Charley Jackson placed second in the Class B division of the CIF finals track and field meet 120 yard high hurdles held Friday night at the Cerritos College oval in Norwalk.

Jackson was timed in 15 seconds for his second place finish as he was one of two Lompoc entrants in the finals to take a slot in the top five of an event.

The other was junior Dale Bricker, who placed fifth in the Class B 100 yard dash with a time of 10.2 seconds. The efforts of the two gave Lompoc a total of five team points while compared to the 10 points notched by Burbank Burroughs and Channel Islands of Oxnard, the meet co-titlists.

Other Braves competing in the meet but failing to place were varsity high jumper John Fridrich Bee weights Ron Kessler (1320) and Jackson (low hurdles) and Bricker (220).

The only other SBCL spiker to place in the meet was hurdler Kelly Smith of San Marcos, who won the low hurdles in 13 seconds. Santa Barbara Dons Sam Cunningham (shot put) and Lionel Lamb (high and low hurdles) both placed in the varsity division. Cunningham won the shot put with a distance of 64-9 while Lamb was fifth in both hurdle events as both qualified for the state meet to be held in Los Angeles the first part of June.

TO GUARD TROPHY

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI)—The Borg-Warner Indianapolis 500 trophy, worth $52,000 is in the safe hands of Jack MacKenzie. It will be MacKenzie's job to guard the expensive racing prize until a new winner of the Memorial Day classic is named May 30.

Yancey came home in front by sinking three straight birdie putts. The first, on the final regulation hole, got him into the playoff; the second kept him alive as the 31-year-old Devlin ran in his second straight birdie putt; and the third won the money as Devlin, going first, barely missed on his try for three in a row.

"I feel like a million dollars," Yancey said elatedly. "It's been a long day. I have never been in a playoff before and I certainly never made three putts like that in a row."

Everybody thought Devlin, who predicted at the start of the round that a foreigner would be the winner, had the Atlanta Classic in the bag when he stormed into a two-stroke lead with four holes left to play by running off four consecutive

Pilot speedster equals Cobb pace on bases

By United Press International Tommy Harper, a journeyman infielder-outfielder who was fading from the baseball scene only last year, has found a new life with the expansion Seattle Pilots.

Harper stole three bases Sunday, hiking his major league leading total to 25—five games ahead of the pace set by Ty Cobb, whose 96 thefts in 1915 still stands as the American League record.

The Seattle speedster also worked Stan Williams for a bases loaded walk to force in the winning run as the Pilots edged the Cleveland Indians 3-2. Harper, who was picked from the Cleveland roster during the expansion draft in 1968, has been running the bases on his own since getting the green light from his new manager Joe Schultz. "Tommy is complete on his own," said the Seattle manager and to prove it Harper stole home during an 8-2 Pilot victory over the Indians Saturday.

In other American League action Sunday Boston blanked Chicago 1-0, Detroit shutout California 10-0, Baltimore defeated Oakland 5-3, Kansas City edged Washington 3-2, and Minnesota swept New York 2-1, 3-2.

Harper, who played five seasons with the Cincinnati Reds in the National League before being traded to Cleveland Nov. 2, 1967 for George Culver and Fred Whitfield, attributes his sudden success to more playing time.

"I just wasn't playing enough," said Harper, who has jumped nine games ahead of Maury Wills' National League stolen base record of 104. "In order for me to break the record I would have to bat .290." Harper had a double and a single Sunday to boost his average to .291. In 151 trips to the plate the Seattle leadoff man has managed 44 hits and drawn 34 walks.

Lee Maye put the Indians ahead 2-1 in the sixth with a two-run homer but the Pilots battled back in the eighth against Williams. Wayne Comer lead off with a walk and scored after singles by Mike Hegan and Merritt Ranew. Gus Gil forced Ranew at second and then advanced to second on a passed ball. Don Mincher was walked intentionally before Williams walked Harper on a 3-2 pitch.

Jim Longborg and Vicente Romo held Chicago to five hits and George Scott accounted for the only run of the game with his fourth homer of the season as Boston squeaked past the White Sox. Longborg, a World Series hero in 1967 who suffered a serious injury to his knee in a skiing accident the following winter, worked the first seven innings and raised his record to 3-0.

Don Wert knocked in four runs with a homer and single and Denny McLain, with relief help from John Hiller, won his seventh game of the year to pace the Tigers to an easy win over the hapless California Angels. Homers by Willie Horton and Dick McAuliffe also helped send the Angels to their 10th straight loss.

Don Buford's bases-loaded double off reliever Roland Fingers enabled the Orioles to defeat Oakland and extend their winning streak to five games. Back-to-back homer by Boog Powell and Brooks Robinson in the first inning erased a solo shot by Mike Hershberger to give Baltimore a 3-1 lead. Danny Cater tied the score with a two-run blast in the fourth inning before Buford delivered his game-winning hit.

Kansas City completed a three-game sweep of the Senators when Bob Oliver tripled home Ellie Rodriguez with the winning run in the 12th inning. Mike Fiore tied the game in the eighth inning when he singled home Pat Kelly, who had doubled.

Dave Boswell hurled a three-hitter and keyed a two-run sixth inning with a double in the opener and Ron Perranoski put down a Yankee threat in the ninth inning of the nightcap as the Twins swept New York. Cesar drove home Boswell with a single to tie the game and scored the winning run himself on a sacrifice fly by Harmon Killebrew.

In the second game the Twins held a 3-0 lead until John Ellis singled home two runs in the last inning.

Modesto hero Carlos to renew Greene rivalry

By JOE SARGIS UPI Sports Writer

MODESTO, Calif. (UPI)—John Carlos, the disappointed hero of the California Relays, renews his rivalry with Charlie Greene this week in the first annual Kennedy Games at Berkeley, Calif., and he can't wait.

Carlos won the 100 meter dash in 10.1, the 220 in 20.4 and anchored San Jose State's 440-yard relay team to a 39.7 victory in the Cal Relays Saturday, and he's down for a similar assignment at Berkeley Sunday.

John was voted the Cal Relays' outstanding performer, although there were any number of athletes who just as well could have been given the award.

Jorma Kinnunen, Neal Steinhauer and Otis Burrell set meet records in the javelin, shot put and high jump, respectively. Hal Connolly and Jay Silvester beat old rivals in the hammer and discus, Olympic heroes Ron Whitney and Lee Evans won as expected and Leon Coleman upset Willie Davenport in other events.

Bob Beamon, who startled the track and field world when he sailed 29-2 1/2 to win the Olympic gold medal in the long jump last fall, still is having problems as is Olympic pole vault champ Bob Seagren.

Kinnunen, who won the Olympic silver medal, threw the javelin 270 feet, 11 inches to beat the old meet mark of 268-10 set by Sweden's Lennart Hedmark three years ago, while Steinhauer, Oregon's former "super Duck" now in the Army, took the shot with a mighty heave of 66-5 1/2, beating world record holder Randy Matson's relays mark of 65-3 1/2 set in 1966.

Burrell, the former Nevada star, took the high jump with a best of 7-1 3/4 which was three-quarters of an inch better than the old relays mark set by Joe Faust in 1962.

Connolly took the hammer with a throw of 221-1; Silvester the discus over Czechoslovakia's Ludvik Daneke, 211-2 to 209-11; Whitney the 440 high hurdles in 51.9; Evans the 440 dash in 45.8 and Coleman the 120 high hurdles in 13.5.

Shoemaker aims for return by fall

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI)—Bill Shoemaker may be back in the saddle by next fall, attending physicians said Saturday when the five-time national riding champion was released from Centinela Hospital.

Shoemaker, 37, suffered a fractured pelvis April 30 in a freak paddock accident at Hollywood Park.

"Mr. Shoemaker has progressed satisfactorily while hospitalized and he now can continue convalescing at home," a hospital spokesman said. "His physicians have been pleased with his progress and anticipate progressive rehabilitation."

Shoemaker was back in action only 10 weeks before the April 30 accident. He was sidelined more than a year with a fractured thigh.

The veteran rider has 5,812 career victories, second only to the 6,032 posted by the now retired Johnny Londergan

Olympic representatives, finished in a dead heat, all being clocked in 13.5, but Coleman and Hall placed ahead of Davenport when Willie stumbled at the wire.

Beamon has a best of 25-7 1/2 in the long jump this year and Seagren took the world pole vault record to 17-9 earlier this season. Neither came close to his best in the Relays as Beamon wound up third to Gayle Hopkins (26-1) with a 25-6 1/4 and Seagren finished second to John Pennel as both cleared 17 feet.

Pennel, the first man to go 17 feet, and Seagren made three tries at 18 feet but never came close.

Tiger in must win situation

NEW YORK (UPI)—Dick Tiger, the battle-tested old soldier who seems to be fading away, fights for survival as a light heavyweight contender tonight against aspiring actor and current middleweight champion Nino Benvenuti.

Tiger, an 18-year veteran of the ring who once held the middleweight and the 175-pound titles, faces the brash Italian in a scheduled 10-round, non-title bout at Madison Square Garden. For the old warrior from Baffra, it is a must win situation if he expects to get another shot at the championship he once held.

The doubleheader card also features middleweight contender Don Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah, against journeyman Juarez Delima of Brazil. Delima, the fifth ranked middleweight in the World Boxing Association ratings, is a substitute, filling in for Frankie DePaula, whose boxing license was suspended by the New York State Athletic Commission. The New Jersey fighter was arrested last week on charges of theft of interstate shipment of copper.

Tiger has long been a favorite of Garden boxing enthusiasts but the 39-year old fighter is beginning to show wear. A year ago he lost the light heavyweight crown to Bob Foster of Washington, D.C., being stopped for the first time in his career. However, he came back to pound out a decision over DePaula in a slugfest in the Garden last October.

The durable, aggressive Baffra, making his 16th Garden appearance (old and new), takes a 59-16-3 record into the ring.

Benvenuti, the mop-haired Italian who regained the middleweight crown from Emile Griffith in his only previous Garden appearance, will be stepping into the light heavyweight ranks for the first time.

Benvenuti, boasting an impressive 78-2-1 record, is expected to weigh about 163. While he will enter the ring a favorite, he isn't taking Tiger lightly.

If he gets past Tiger he may challenge Foster for the 175-pound crown or engage Emile Griffith for the fourth time in a middleweight title bout.

APRIL WINNER NEW YORK (UPI)—Jerry West of the Los Angeles Lakers, who was named the most valuable player in the recently concluded playoffs for the National Basketball Association championship, was the April winner of the S. Rae Hickok "Professional Athlete of the Year Award."

Being on top ladder helps Rod Laver defeat court foes

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Here is this fellow with red hair receding on a sloping forehead, imploring blue eyes, bowed legs and an arm that looks deformed and freckles blotched all over his body and with a nose that would set a hawk strutting and he is not quite 5-foot-9 and weighs, given the benefit of all doubts, 150 pounds.

This unusual physical specimen is Rod Laver, the best tennis player in the world!

He is 30 years old now and he has been on top so long that to think of it causes nose bleeds. Some younger players, primarily Tony Roche, are after Laver's lofty position. This bothers Laver not a fig.

"I have had some pretty good innings," said Laver.

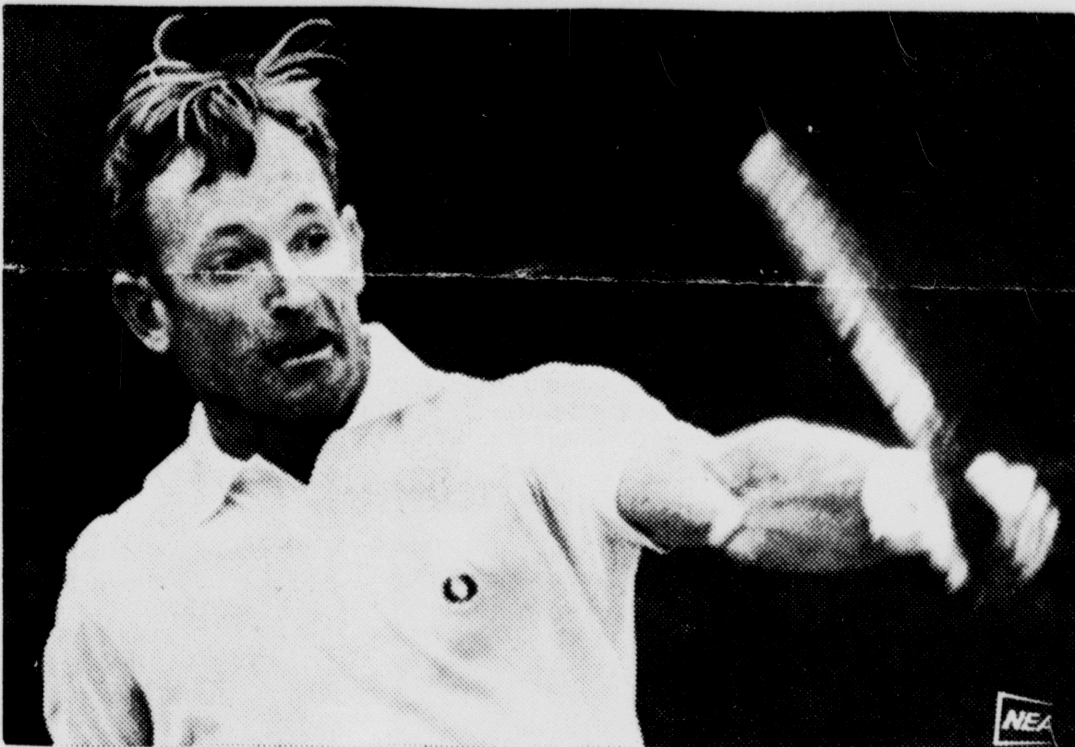

Pretty good? He was the No. 1 amateur in the world in 1960 '61, and '62. In 1962 he won the Grand Slam of Tennis, the Australian, Wimbledon, French and United States championships. Don Budge, in 1938, is the only other player to accomplish that.

Laver turned professional in 1963. After savoring-sometimes almost literally-the services of the likes of Ken Rosewall and Pancho Gonzalez, he returned to the soft spot and sank in like it was an old leather chair. He has been rated the world's finest every year since 1964.

Laver is still winning quite a good deal but he is developing some of the aches that go with longevity. A strained elbow causes him to warm up slowly and, after a match, to soak the elbow in an ice bucket. Dr. Robert Kerland, the physician who treated Sandy Koufax, has also been looking after Laver and plying him, periodically, with cortisone shots.

"I fell on my racket last year," said Laver, "and hurt my wrist, actually. I began favoring my wrist and putting more pressure on my elbow."

Laver is a left-hander, as is fellow Australian Roche, and Laver's left arm and wrist

Rod Laver

... some pretty good innings

appear nearly twice the size of his right. The veins of his left arm pop when he squeezes the racket handle and the muscles wriggle. His right arm hangs limp.

"My left wrist is about an inch-and-a-half larger than my right," said Laver. "That's just from looking at them. I never measured, though."

It is this left wrist that provides the power and extra-ordinary spins which have made Laver the finest player in his era, just as Bill Tilden was in the '20's, Budge in the '30's Jack Kramer in the '40's and Gonzalez in the '50's.

"It's those wristy strokes of his that win," said Ken Rosewall. "He has so much confidence in his left forearm that it obviously gives him a feeling of strength and confidence to play unorthodox shots."

As king, Laver says the pressure is on the others to dethrone him. "I guess Tony (Roche) thinks of himself as heir apparent. I don't know. I just think about the prize money. That's what I am playing for, actually."

"I guess everyone takes a certain special satisfaction in trying to beat me. And surprisingly that works to my advantage. They will try too hard and muff shots they'd normally return."

After losing rather decisively to Laver in a recent match, South African pro Ray Moore said, "I could beat him- if he only had a weakness. Ga-a-a-a-wd, what a bloke!"

Martin once knew all; now just learning

NEW YORK (UPI)—Billy Martin has come a long way.

Twenty years ago, when he was only 21, when he had the world by the chandeliers, and when he was about to break into the big leagues, he thought he knew everything there was to know. On any subject, Baseball; bocci ball; life, you name it.

That was 20 years ago. Billy Martin is 41 now. He's managing the Minnesota Twins. Has more responsibility than he ever had and frequently is two jumps ahead of the other guy. He doesn't say so, others do. That's one of the big differences in 20 years. Now Billy Martin will tell you he doesn't really know half he once thought he did.

"I've got a lot to learn," he says.

There's one thing that hasn't changed with him in those 20 years and may not change in the next 20 either, and that's his feeling about baseball.

"I put it above everything," he says.

"Above your life?" I asked him.

"Baseball is my life," he said.

Because it is and because of his fierce competitive nature, Martin occasionally loses sight of the fact there are others who feel almost as strongly about baseball as he does and this oversight sometimes leads to complications. A case in point was his recent run-in with Sherry Robertson, the Twins' vice president and farm director, and George Brophy, the assistant farm director, over the optioning of a pitcher to Charlotte instead of Cnver.

Calvin Griffith, who owns the Twins, called in all the principals, listened to what they had to say and then had something to say himself. He said there were two bosses on the ball club, Billy Martin downstairs on the field and Calvin Griffith upstairs in the front office.

Martin apologized to Robertson and Brophy.

"I was wrong, dead wrong to air the whole thing in the press," he says. "I could've said everything I had to say in private and kept it among us, which I should have. I have nothing but the utmost respect for Sherry Robertson and always have had. I brag on him all the time and I know the great kind of job he does. I certainly didn't want to show up anybody. I know every man is a proud man. The one thing I'm glad of about the whole thing is that it's all ironed out now."

Griffith was responsible for that and Martin actually lights up every time he talks about the Minnesota owner.

"If I looked the world over I couldn't work for a greater man," he says.

Would he still say that if Griffith fires him someday?

"The day I'm fired I'll still say I couldn't work for a greater man than Calvin Griffith," Martin says. "He's absolutely beautiful."

Years ago when he played second base for the New York Yankees and Casey Stengel managed them, Billy Martin used to be known as "Casey's boy." That was largely because Stengel admired the way Martin had battled and worked his way up to the big leagues, the way he had won a regular job with a great club like the Yankees and the way this skinny, black-haired kid from Oakland wouldn't take a backward step for anybody. Stengel invariably defended Martin against any and all critics and it was obvious how he felt about him.

The feeling was mutual, Billy was extra fond of Casey, too. He thought of him as a ballplayers' manager. Until the Yanks peddled Martin to the Kansas City A's in mid-1957. That disappointed Billy because he felt Stengel had not spoken up in his behalf.

Martin made a pact with himself. He vowed if he ever became a manager he never would abandon his ballplayers. But never, and that's what caused his recent collision with the people upstairs for the Twins.

There is no malice or meanness in Billy Martin. Nor is he one to hold a grudge.

He and Jimmy Piersall were always at each other's throat in their playing days but they're good friends now and the former Red Sox outfielder even sent him a wire wishing him well as Minnesota manager when the season opened.

Then there's the case of Jim Brewer, the Dodgers' pitcher who took Martin to court, claiming Billy broke his jaw with a punch during a brawl on the field six years ago. Martin counter-claimed he did no such thing but it still cost him $10,000 in damages plus another $12,000 in legal fees.

"Jim Brewer has caused me a great deal of grief in my life, but I bear no grudge against him," Martin points out. "I even shook hands with him in spring training."

Weeb not about to get in Namath-Unitas bout

By MILTON RICHMAN

UPI Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UPI)—Weeb Ewbank is one of the most cooperative little guys you'll ever meet, in sports or out.

He'll do anything to help. Better make that practically anything because there is one thing he won't do.

Weeb Ewbank isn't going to get himself into the middle of any controversy between Joe Namath, the man who led his New York Jets to a world championship four months ago, and Johnny Unitas, the man primarily responsible for Weeb's winning two previous titles with the Baltimore Colts.

Possibly the few isolated sparks flying between the two quarterbacks now is nothing more than a bit of delayed post-game jockeying, but nobody's going to catch Ewbank helping to fan the low burning flame into a brush fire.

The chubby 62-year-old Jets' coach with the Pete Rose crew-cut makes no secret of the way he feels about Namath.

He's crazy about him and as Weeb Ewbank will tell you himself, he'd be crazy if he felt otherwise.

But he has pretty much the same sincere affection and respect for Unitas.

So if Johnny Unitas is going to aim a few needles at Joe Namath, perhaps because of some previous needles Joe Namath aimed at Earl Morrall, Weeb plans to maintain his position of neutrality on the sidelines while the two quarterbacks peg away at each other.

He refused to be mouse-trapped at the Super Bowl film preview the other night when a couple of guys cornered him and asked him about Unitas' remarks.

"What remarks?" Ewbank asked, rather puzzled.

"Unitas said Namath is a good quarterback and he reads defenses well but there are at least two or three better passers in the AFL than him," one of the guys explained to Ewbank.

The Jets' coach was silent a second.

"I would have to think John was misquoted," he said.

"Maybe," somebody chimed in, "but Unitas has said this a few times already and in more than one place. They can't all be misquoting him."

Ewbank mullied it over some more.

"It certainly doesn't sound like John Unitas," he said, "He might think a thing like that, but he wouldn't say it."

The conversation continued, centering now around Namath. "Do you think he can ever better the year he had last year?" somebody wanted to know.

"I'd like to think he'd progress a little more this year," Ewbank answered.

"What about his legs?"

"He had a lot of problems with them before the season started last year but once the season got underway he got better. At the end of the year his legs were in the best shape they ever had been."

"Then you don't think they'll shorten his career?"

"No, I don't."

"What about yourself. How much did the win in the Super Bowl change your life?"

"Well, it brought me great satisfaction. I'm very happy about it, but I've been in championships before. This isn't the first one."

"Did you ever think of retiring after the big one?"

"I learned from my friends. A number of them did retire. They're sorry. So I learned from them."

"Have you spoken with Don Shula (the Baltimore Coach) since the Super Bowl?"

"Yes. We talked out on the west coast."

"Mostly about football?"

"We just talked about different parts of the game. Some technical points that came up."

They were nearly ready to show the film now and word was sent out that they'd like Ewbank to sit up front where he would get a good view.

"How many times have you seen it?" a newsman asked. "I expect about 15 times."

"It always ends up the same way, doesn't it?"

"Yeh," Ewbank laughed. Then he walked inside the room where the film was to be shown and sat down.

Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—As we travel along life's highway, being careful not to cross the median strip, we bump into many eternal verities, one of them being that we often don't appreciate something until we lose it.

This is the way I feel about my little toes.
I have two of the finest little toes in the world, cute as bugs and just bubbling over with personality. The way they snuggle up to the toes next to them is utterly charming.

Yet I would be better than candid if I said that I have truly appreciated their many virtues. The plain fact is that I have largely ignored them.

Hardly Second Thought
Except for a couple of times when I had a case of athlete's foot, I have hardly given my little toes a second thought. I trimmed their nails once a week, and that's about it.

But that's all changed now. I have become determined to enjoy my little toes while I can. Every night when I take my shoes off we have a rollicking game of "This little piggy went to market" before we go to bed.

The thing that caused this change of heart, and made me suddenly become little toe conscious, was a recent news item in which a foot specialist reported that little toes are gradually disappearing.

He precited that in 10,000 years man will have only four toes on each foot.

The specialist, Dr. R.S. Bob, blamed the impending extinction of the little toe on tight shoes. But I'm convinced there is more to it than that.

Tight shoes are only hastening the process. The real truth is that little toes are pining away for lack of love and affection.

It still isn't too late to save them, to reverse the trend toward obsolescence, if only we go about it in the right way.

Little toes must be made to feel that they are a part of you. You've got to make them feel wanted. Otherwise, they will continue to atrophy.

If necessary, stretch the point a bit and pretend that you couldn't get along without them.

At first, you may think your little toes are hopelessly retarded. But they are only in a state of quiescence caused by inattentinn and neglect. A little toe must be stimulated in order to develop.

Try giving them an affectionate wiggle every time you are barefooted. You will find that they will soon be responding to your overtures. Almost before you know it, they will be as perky and as adorable as your other toes.

Television in Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Maintaining a hit television series over the years often requires a facelift for a show. Many series returning next season have undergone format surgery. And sometimes the human problems involved are similar to those that any company personnel director would understand.

Some years back, for instance, "Gunsmoke" seemed to be in real trouble when Dennis Weaver—the famed "Chester" of the show—decided he had enough of the part and quit. After careful screening, a fellow named Ken Curtis was promoted into prominence on

Cancer drive in last effort

Ronald E. Boggs, Chairman for the American Cancer Society's 1969 Crusade in Lompoc, announced today that a final effort will be made by the Chapter's volunteers during the next week to "mop-up" the fund-raising efforts in the area. Portions of Lompoc not yet covered by the Neighbor-to-Neighbor campaign will be covered by door-to-door solicitation.

To those who have already contributed to this year's Crusade, Chairman Boggs expressed the appreciation of the Lompoc Chapter, commenting on the interest and support shown locally, and on the general receptiveness with which educators, organizations and the public has responded to cancer educational materials. The volunteers, he stated, are enlarging their service program, which includes sick-room equipment and dressings available to patients.

The Lompoc Chapter information office has been moved to Suite 105, in the La Purisima Building at 205 North H Street. On behalf of Chapter members, Chapter Chairman John C. Baker, and Executive Secretary Irene Van Wagenen, Boggs issued an invitation to all of the Society's friends to stop by and see the new headquarters for a first-hand look at the new office and to learn more of the progress being made toward bringing the full program directly to the Lompoc Valley residents. Information provided may also be obtained by calling the Chapter's office, REgent 6-2610.

SUNGLASSES add a modern touch to the face of a reindeer herdsman in the "wild east" of Russia's Kamchatka Peninsula.

the program, and now his role of "Festus" has made audiences forget Chester.

"I Love Lucy" was one of video's all-time hits, but when the star, Lucille Ball, and her costar—her husband Desi Arnaz—broke up, there were those who wondered whether the comedienne could maintain her popularity. She has, of course, in several variations on her original series, including the latest, which features her children by Desi.

Andy Griffith quit his series this past season, but careful selection of a new leading man, Ken Berry—and emphasis on the other characters—have kept the show going successfully under its fresh title: "Mayberry R.F.D."

"The Virginian" has had its cast changes, as I can attest very personally. Several months ago, I was sold a cable television contract for my sets at home by a salesman who turned out to be Cary Clarke, a former regular on "The Virginian." He, along with others, is out of the program, but it keeps rolling along.

Jackie Gleason's series has had severe ups and downs, as the comedian himself admits with his customary frankness. The high points of the series invariably have been related to the regular appearances of Art Carney as Gleason's pal in "The Honeymooners" segments. Whenever the show has relied on straight variety, the difference has been all too clear, and Carney's presence sorely missed.

Three Hancock students honored as athletes

Three Hancock College athletes have been named listed in the 1969 edition of "Outstanding College Athletes of America"—an annual compilation of the country's top athletes. The AHC representatives are Steve Vermillion, a fullback in football; Emerson Carr, a guard on the basketball team; and Brad Druktenis, the college's most successful wrestler.

The athletes were nominated earlier this year along with other Bulldog athletes. They were chosen for the awards publication on the basis of their achievements—both in their sport and on campus.

Noticeably missing in the "Who's Who in Sport" type of book was one of the college's greatest basketball players—Malcolm Taylor. He was nominated.

"Outstanding College Athletes of America" is sponsored by the non-profit Outstanding Americans Foundation. John Putman, one of the Ten Outstanding Young Men of America for 1966 and President of the Foundation, said, "It is the purpose of this book to recognize and honor the all-round abilities of the young people who have distinguished themselves in the sports competitions of our colleges. These young people carry the mantle of their school, their state and their nation each time they participate in competitive sports."

"Outstanding College Athletes of America" is an annual biographical compilation featuring the accomplishments of approximately 5,000 young athletes who have proven themselves outstanding in sports,

Hollywood today

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Behind the bravado of Hollywood filmmakers lies a ton of timidity fortified only by stupendous galls.

Frequently when a studio chief or an independent producer completes a film he has no idea whether it will be a hit or a bomb. And none of his underlings dares tell him the truth.

Only the publicity department is certain beyond doubt that every movie is the greatest thing since the invention of the magic lantern.

There are three classic cases at one studio alone that exemplify the dunderheadedness of the scientists who bestow great works of cinematic art on an unsuspecting public.

The studio is Paramount. The pictures were "Going My Way," "Shane," and "The Graduate."

In all three cases studio bigwigs were terrified they had produced catastrophes and attempted to unload them on their brethren in the movie-making business.

When director Leo McCarey completed "Going My Way" with Bing Crosby and Barry Fitzgerald as priests, the late Frank Freeman blew his stack. He told McCarey that folks down South didn't cotton to priests and that he would lose his shirt.

Freeman refused to pay McCarey his director's salary, insisting instead, that the director accept a percentage of the profits, if any.

"Freeman forced me into becoming a millionaire," McCarey said after the film went on to win the Oscar, along with awards for Crosby and Fitzgerald. McCarey won the Oscar in addition to millions.

Then there was the case of George Stevens and "Shane."

When Stevens turned in his print of the Western the corporate structure at Paramount was struck with a massive case of St. Vitus Dance. They believed, collectively, that Stevens had lost his mind.

Tried to Unload

The studio negotiated with United Artists to buy the picture at cost. Paramount just wanted to unload the atrocity and get its money back. But United Artists wasn't having any. Clearly, the brains at UA knew a turkey when they saw one too.

With a tear in its corporate eye Paramount released "Shane" and waited for the bomb to explode.

It did. With shattering effect, "Shane" became a classic Western and earned as much money as any horse opera that ever thundered out of a sound stage.

Finally, and recently, director Mike Nichols turned out an unpretentious little picture titled "The Graduate" starring a couple of unknown kids, Dustin Hoffman and Katharine Ross.

Once again the bosses had a stroke. "What is this?" they cried, or something like that. All they could see was ruin and disgrace.

"The Graduate" caught on with young people and currently is chasing "Gone With the Wind" and "Sound of Music" as the most successful boxoffice picture ever made.

It would seem to prove one thing—there's a world of difference between courage and gall.

Jim: "How about another week of articles on squeeze plays?"

Oswald: "The play is common enough. Sometimes you play deliberately for a squeeze. On other occasions you stumble into one. The main thing to bear in mind is that any time you can take all but one of the remaining tricks and have long cards in two suits, a squeeze may develop."

Jim: "The average player should remember the squeeze is always possible and that nothing is lost by playing for one."

Oswald: "When today's hand was played in a rubber bridge game South won the heart lead: ruffed a heart with dummy's king of trumps showed his hand and remarked that he was going to run out all his trumps and would make seven if a squeeze developed."

Jim: "It was an automatic squeeze situation although the odds were greatly against a squeeze really developing."

Oswald: "For the benefit of our readers who don't see the squeeze, it is against East. South's last three cards are the jack of diamonds and ace-four of clubs. Dummy holds all three clubs and East just can't hold a high diamond and protect his queen of clubs."

Jim: "Not a likely one to develop. Give West either high diamond or either the queen or jack of clubs and there is no squeeze but South had nothing to lose except a little time by giving the squeeze a chance to work."

Oswald: "Note that South was in position from the start. He had all the tricks but one and he held threat cards in both diamonds and clubs."

Jim: "Of course overtricks mean little in rubber bridge but when you can make one without any risk, it is a small but clear profit."

Letters to the editor

Dear Mr. Crompe:

I would like to take this opportunity to thank you for the fine cooperation you have given our Work Experience Education program during the past school year. I feel sure that the students have received many worthwhile experiences from their association with you. These experiences should be very beneficial to the student in future years.

It has been a real pleasure working with you in helping to make better citizens of your young people. I sincerely hope that this arrangement will continue in future years.

The official Work Experience Education year will end for the exploratory students on May 29, 1969.

Thank you again for your cooperation. Sincerely,

Mitchell Daugherty
Work Experience
Education.

To the Editor:

Now that your paper has so obviously slanted the City's projected Fire Station so that we poor but paying citizens will be misled into believing that our homes will burn to the ground if we don't get it built, will you give a little space to an over-burdened taxpayer who MUST finally rebel against everyone spending his money for him?

Most of the people in Lompoc are on a treadmill that seems to be going faster and faster — "The hurrieder we go the behinder we get" is our motto. We pay more Federal taxes, more State taxes, more County taxes, more school taxes, and have you noticed that every time some agency or corporation gets a raise in salary, our food prices jump up accordingly? (What happened to that $20.00 bill the last time YOU stopped in at the grocery store for a few little items?)

Careful plotting and planning has kept our City taxes about equal, but you and I know it will catch up to us very soon. That new library is a perfectly beautiful building, certainly, but isn't it a little like an ostentatious Lincoln parked in the driveway of a shanty in the Deep South? (No money for gas — and have you seen the empty shelves in the Library?)

We also are not quite so gullible anymore. We know that Federal money — grants, or loans, or what have you — is still coming out of our personal paychecks. Saying that "if we don't get it someone else will" is pretty shortsighted: and SOMEBODY HAS GOT TO STOP. We aren't so stupid anymore either not to know that that $500,000 isn't sooner or later going to be paid by you and me.

If we took a survey of this supposedly affluent town, would we discover that most wives are working along with our husbands to keep up with the rat race? In one place of employment that I checked, out of the 32 married men, 24 had working wives. Who is taking care of our children, and who is screaming about how terrible the kids are when they reach the age of reason and rebel against our way of life? Ask around — it's just about impossible to live in Lompoc on one salary!

Instead, let's give Chief Baker and his department a public commendation for the excellent work, they are doing — we thank him and do appreciate it — but he doesn't need a $500,000 building to put out his fires, the men and equipment do it.

I'd love to have a mink coat and a yacht and a vacation in Europe; but we'll make do with the cloth coat and the 14 ft. Evinrude for a while until our payments are made on the tent we go camping in!

Mrs. John Chapman
1621 Sheffield Drive
Lompoc

Dear Sir:

We, the members of the City Council of the City of Lompoc as the elected representatives of the citizens of this City, hereby make the following public statement concerning the matter of the proposed Lompoc Dam and Reservoir Project:

During the past two years this City Council has reviewed the voluminous studies and reports prepared by the County, local agencies, and the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation concerning water supply development in the County of Santa Barbara. In addition, the City staff and consultants have studied this matter in detail including water supply and quality data, hydraulic engineering data, financial analysis and legal analysis. Based upon our review and analyses of these studies and reports, we have officially and publicly supported the conclusions and recommendations of the Bureau of Reclamation as set forth in its revised Lompoc Project Report. These conclusions and recommendations were reached after five years of study and the expenditure of approximately one-half million dollars of Federal and County funds. The pertinent conclusions are:

a. There is an urgent need to develop a supplemental municipal and industrial water supply for the city of Lompoc, Vandenberg Air Force Base, and the communities of Vandenberg Village and Mission Hills.

b. The ground-water basins in the Lompoc area are in an overall state of overdraft.

c. Benefits derived from a supplemental municipal and industrial water supply to Vandenberg Air Force Base attain a level of national significance by virtue of the involvement of Vandenberg Air Force Base with space exploration programs.

d. Substantial benefits could be derived from recreational development, flood control, and fishery enhancement.

e. The plan as proposed is feasible from an engineering standpoint.

f. The project is economically justified and financially feasible, and should be constructed at the earliest practicable date to help meet the critical water needs of the area.

g. In order to sustain economic growth in the area it will be necessary to develop a supplemental supply in addition to that which can be developed by the Lompoc Project.

The City Council expressed its most recent support of this project when, at its meeting of May 20, 1969, it adopted a Resolution urging the Santa Barbara County Water Agency's support of the Project and requested the Agency to seek the earliest practicable authorization of and appropriation for Project construction. At this time, we hereby urge each citizen to individually support the Lompoc Project by signing a support petition and attending the Water Agency meeting on May 27 in Santa Barbara.

Research troubles

Ever since Congress began appropriating large sums of money for support of the National Health Institutes, volunteer workers for organizations such as the American Cancer Society have had to contend with arguments from reluctant givers who said "why support private research when the government is doing so much in this field."

The Society's spokesmen, who incidentally were very much involved in getting Congress to make those appropriations in the first place, tried to explain that government subsidies are never a sure thing and that in any event scientists should have more than one source to which to appeal for funds.

Those spokesmen who pointed out the unpredictability of government actions in support of research now are being proved to have been very right. Cries of anguish have been going up from medical schools from coast to coast because of drastic curtailments in the federal budget. Some of these schools have become so shaky with reduced government support that they are threatening to close.

The real tragedy, however, is that unless someone picks up the slack it is inevitable that cancer research is going to be slowed down in the United States at the precise time when it seems to be closer than ever to producing dramatic results.

During the past three years, the squeeze of government budgeting has inundated the American Cancer Society with three times as many funding requests from scientists as it has been able to grant.

Now the requests are multiplying even faster because desperate researchers have so few places to which to turn and are fearful of seeing their projects go down the drain. In an attempt to ease the situation, the national board of directors of the Society this month took unprecedented action at its quarterly meeting in Cleveland. It voted for deficit spending in order to make additional emergency funds available for cancer research this year.

If you have not yet responded to the 1969 appeal of the Cancer Society in Lompoc, there is no time to lose in sending your check. The need has never before been so great.

The Society's headquarters in Lompoc are in the La Purisima Building, THOUGHTS WHILE SHAVING . . .

Our sympathies are with kindergarten teachers. Our boy showed us what he was bringing his teacher the other day — a decomposed bird. Said they were working on a "bird project." . . . Yikes, our wife is beginning to collect items for a rummage sale again and the sale isn't scheduled until next year. . . . The Lompoc Valley Press Club will have a dilly of a program June 12, Vernon Scott, Hollywood reporter for United Press International news service, will be the speaker . . . The Johns-Manville daily company bulletin warns the employees of an obvious rattlesnake problem in Number 9 canyon. From other reports, it is not the only local place with a rattlesnake problem. It's a rattlesnake year . . . There's a story someplace in this item taken from the Fire Department daily log: Units were called to a home to investigate smoke coming out of an exerciser . . . See you all in Santa Barbara tomorrow, 2 p.m., County Administration Building.

Arms talks

WASHINGTON—Not long before he left on his Asian trip, Secretary of State William P. Rogers met with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin. Rogers wanted to reaffirm to Dobrynin what he had said publicly—that the United States would be prepared to enter into arms negotiations with the Soviet Union in the late spring or early summer.

Reporting the discussion to colleagues, Rogers stressed Dobrynin's concern over delay in the long-heralded talks. He quoted the Soviet ambassador as saying with the very humor that is one of his characteristics: "You are sure you don't mean Indian summer."

It now appears there will be a delay in the start of the effort to checkmate another sharp upward spiral in the nuclear arms race. What in bureaucraticese is called "slippage" has taken place. From White House sources comes word it may be August before the American side bears out this pessimistic estimate.

As the days slip by the fear grows that a last chance to head off another and perhaps the ultimate round in the race will be lost. Two reasons underscore this fear. One is evidence of a hardening attitude in Moscow. The military appear to have increasing weight in the Kremlin.

The second fear is of an accident that suddenly in flaring headlines puts an end to all hopes of talks. The U-2 spy plane shot down in 1960 wrote finish to the attempt of President Eisenhower to abate the cold war and arrive at competitive coexistence with the Soviets. The Russian invasion of Czechoslovakia last August cut across the carefully laid plans of President Johnson to begin arms talks. An accident would all too obviously suit those who in private oppose arms limitation.

If any single factor has damped the prospect for arms talks it is the decision of the Nixon administration to start deployment of antiballistic missiles to safeguard intercontinental missiles. This is not so much because it will mean any significant change in the strategic balance between the two nuclear giants, but because of the loud propaganda coming from Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird and other defense officials to convince Congress the Soviets are preparing a first-strike capability to cripple the United States.

No walls of silence, such as can be imposed by an authoritarian system, surround the United States to keep the angry ABM debate within the American family. All of the speeches and statements by Laird, Dr. John S. Foster Jr., director of defense research and engineering, and others carrying the torch for ABM are avidly read in the Kremlin. It is hardly necessary to add that they serve the cause of the hardliners who, it is a safe conjecture, argue that it is useless to try to come to any agreement with the warmongering imperialists in Washington. A recent visitor from the Soviet Union put this question:

"What if Grechko (Marshal Andrei A., Soviet Minister of Defense) was saying the things Laird is saying?"

Imagine Marshal Grechko writing in Pravda or trumpeting in a speech on Armed Forces Day that the United States was accelerating the buildup in both offensive and defensive nuclear weapons. And what for? Why, to knock out the Soviet's retaliatory capability, with America triumphant in a first strike and the Soviet Union forever crippled if not destroyed.

The consequences for any future arms talks would be pretty serious. How can we ever deal with people like that the Laird blasts do not matter, since there is no public opinion in the Soviet Union, is fallacious. A kind of opinion at the very highest level is subject to the news from everywhere and particularly from the other nuclear giant across the great divide.

The director of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, Gerard C. Smith, will be the principal negotiator in the first round when — and at this point caution dictates an if — it begins. Smith is determined that the talks will succeed. While they may not bring a reduction in nuclear arms, at a minimum they should checkmate a new spiral. The disarmament agency is hopefully setting a date between July 15 and August 1 for the start of the talks. Since spring ends on June 20, July 15 would still be within Secretary Rogers' pledged timing.

No one questions Smith's dedication and sincerity. But he faces many handicaps within the administration. A month ago the word was put out that he would have a strong, capable deputy. An approach was made to William H. Sullivan, former ambassador to Laos and one of the ablest foreign service officers. Subsequently, Sullivan was named deputy secretary for the Far East, with emphasis on the Vietnam task force, which may say something about priorities. No deputy has been named.

Why are the forces in the inner council cold, hot and lukewarm on the arms talks? What is the reason for the slippage? This will be examined in a following column.

Water costs high?

In the Virgin Islands they are building the world's largest seawater desalting facility. Within the complex of four plants, the Islands' Water and Power Authority produces 4,800,000 gallons of fresh water daily from the sea. At present, including amortization, the cost is $326 per acre foot or about $1 per 1,000 gallons.

If you ask Dick Cannard, executive director of the Authority about the high cost of desalting, he's apt to get a little testy and snap, "If you don't have any other source of water and you need it, you don't quibble about the price."

In the little town of Coalinga up near Fresno, water is a commodity more precious than the black gold pumped from the huge underground lakes on which the community is constructed.

Because of the high mineral content of the water in the town, the mere fact that water is used at all is a tremendous expense.

It's said in the town that the water is so bad it even dissolves the faucets. It is no joke that washing machines, pipes and other water-using appliances last only about two years. Officials of the town estimate that home owners pay from $30-$40 monthly in extra expenses caused by the poor quality of the water.

Raw water in Coalinga costs $3.50 per month. Demineralized water is rationed and costs $1.75 per month. When "soft" or "good" water pipes spring a leak people pay 1½-cents per gallon. It is not too usual for some unwary home owners to get monthly water bills for $357, as was the case with Robert Watson.

The citizens of the community, gripe, yell at the city fathers but pay the price because they have no choice. A remedy may be coming soon in the form of a $5.6 million connection to the California aqueduct. The town has a population of only 7,000 so the cost of the better quality water and the system designed to bring it to town will be anything but cheap — but the need is so great the price is not the main consideration.

The price of water in the Virgin Islands and Coalinga must sound fantastically high to residents of Lompoc who have been complaining about the cost of their water for several years.

The cost of Lompoc's present water is a story within itself but one that needs clarifying because the facts have not been presented within their proper context in most instances.

It is often heard that Lompoc's water cost is only slightly above $3.50 per acre foot for the 3,500 acre feet it uses annually. That statement is essentially true in-so-far as it goes. Trouble is that it does not go far enough. Lompoc's water, as it is pumped from the ground, does cost in the $4 per acre foot ballpark. But that's with no equipment on the field and no players.

Taking the water from the ground, routing it through the treatment plant and the city distribution system and paying the personnel to perform the function changes the picture drastically. Depending upon the amount of water used during a given month, the cost of Lompoc's water ranges from a low of about $110 per acre foot upwards to $135 an acre foot.

A major complaint to be heard against the proposed Lompoc dam and reservoir is the high cost of the facility per se and the projected cost of water once the project has been constructed. The price tag on the project is presently put at $32 million in terms of repayment costs to the area with the projected water cost put at $112 an acre foot. No question that $32 million is no small amount and no question that the cost of the water will have to be increased to repay the loan — but people whose chief concern is money are failing to evaluate the project properly in terms of benefits to be derived from its use today and decades into the future.

Within a few short years, the acre foot price of the water and the cost of the project will not be prime considerations if the need for water is sufficiently great — and every indication is that the need will indeed be great. By way of illustration, the area's present population is 48,000 but by the year 2020 there will be upwards of 196,000 people living within this same area. Construction costs jump about 10 per cent annually which means that for each year the project is delayed the total cost of the project climbs like the mercury in a thermometer. If approval of the project is delayed too many years, or until such time as the decision to construct the project is forced upon us by the sheer weight of necessity, the cost of the project may have doubled or tripled — but like the people of the Virgin Islands and Coalinga, we won't quibble over the price, we'll just regret that we didn't build it earlier.
